Guest column: Forgotten history

150 years ago, president's son killed by train in Andover

By Michael Jones

On Nov. 5, 1789, George Washington passed through Andover while touring New England during his first year in office. His visit lasted no more than half a day (he was in Lexington in time for dinner and a tour of the Lexington Green), and his impression of the town demanded no more space in his journal than a single paragraph. Nevertheless, his morning in town is perhaps the most famous and oft-recalled of Andover's presidential visits. Washington's visit to town was of the same duration and depth as nearly all subsequent visits by American Presidents: another stop on a whirlwind New England tour, or an address to the commencement exercises of Phillips Academy.

Franklin Pierce

An exception to hasty presidential visits was a memorably tragic one, which occurred more than 60 years after Washington's morning ride. On Jan. 6, 1853, less than a mile from where President Washington had enjoyed breakfast at Isaac Abbot's Elm Street tavern, the only surviving child of President-elect Franklin Pierce was killed in a train accident near Shawshen Village, arguably destroying Pierce's prospects for an effective presidency. Nowhere in town is this event commemorated, or acknowledged, despite the lasting implications of Pierce's failed presidency in the decade before the Civil War.

Pierce had spent the winter holidays of 1852 with his wife, Jane Means Appleton Pierce, and 11-year-old son, Benjamin, at the home of Jane's sister at 48 Central St. in Andover. Having attended a funeral in Boston on the morning of Jan. 6, the family headed by train for Concord, N.H., where they intended to spend the months remaining before Pierce's March inauguration. Shortly after noon, as the train passed through Andover, the train derailed and rolled down the slope of a steep embankment, killing Benjamin instantly. The wreck was blamed on a faulty axle at the front of the passenger car.

Before Franklin Pierce's inauguration, his son, 11, was killed when a train derailed, arguably destroying his prospects for an effective presidency.

Benjamin's body was brought to the Andover Alms House, an imposing red brick structure that stood only a few hundred yards across an open field from the site of the wreck. His body was brought by carriage that afternoon to the home on Central Street where the family had earlier vacationed, and a wake was held at the home several days later. "Bennie" was buried at the Old North Andover Health Director Everett Penney is happy to report that state studies show that, overall, cancer cases in Andover are declining, and are below the state average in most categories. A few years ago, the state studied Andover because it had one of the highest breast-cancer rates in Massachusetts.

Andover cancer rates decline

But testicular, Hodgkin's, melanoma cases high

By Judy Wakefield

A state report on the number of cancer cases in Andover, used by the town's health director to diagnose trends, shows the town's numbers are going down.

Andover is below average with 717 various cancer cases reported in a four-year period from 1995 to 1999. The statewide average for Andover's population was 809 cases during that four-year period.

The current number is down from 12 years ago when Andover had 861 cancer cases reported.

The report, distributed by the state's Department of Public Health, compares the number of "expected and observed" cases of 23 different types of cancer for communities in the state.

"That expected category is based on population," explained Andover Health Director Everett Penney. "This report is not about comparing Andover to other towns and does not include death rates. Rather, it's a report on statewide averages of incidents ... it helps us to notice trends."

Data collected for the report is taken from the state's cancer registry, which is a collection of information from various health agencies around the state, including hospitals, doctor offices, and

Holiday-time crime keeps police busy

Car breaks on rise

By Judy Wakefield

Car breaks have plagued Andover this holiday season, but local police said the arrest of a Westford man responsible for car breaks in another community may be the ticket to solving the crimes.

The name of the 20-something male from Westford was not available at Townsmen presstime but police said he was arrested at a state park in Carlisle and charged with breaking into cars. He is being questioned for similar car breaks around Harold Parker State Forest in Andover where park visitors have returned from hikes and walks to find their cars broken into. But he has not been charged with being involved in any Andover cases.

Meanwhile, another man from Lowell is also being questioned about his involvement in Andover car breaks, according to Mark Higgenbottom of the Andover Police Department. He, too, is a 20-something male whose name was not available at press time.

He turned himself into Lowell District Court on an outstanding warrant unrelated to

Officer shoots in chase with alleged drunk driver

By Ethan Forman

A Tewksbury woman fleeing police tried to run down an officer in the parking lot of the Wingate at Andover nursing home Sunday night, causing him to shoot several times at her car.

No one was injured during the wild ride, including a three-legged dog and a rabbit the woman had along for the ride, in her back seat, Sgt. Rick Edson said.

Officer Brian Blouin fired several rounds into the suspect's car in the nursing home's parking lot in a futile attempt to stop Diane Frazer, 33, of 40 Navillus Road, Tewksbury.

Frazer's ride in a 1997 Ford Explorer ended when she slammed into a tree on Moraine Street which leads to Andover High, Edson said.

She faces numerous charges, Edson said, including two counts of assault and battery on officers after she was taken into custody at the Andover Public Safety Center on North Main Street; assault and battery with a vehicle; assault and battery with intent to murder; four counts of leaving the scene of a property damage accident; and driving under the influence, third offense. Edson said.

The chase started about 10:20 p.m. after Frazer eluded Tewksbury police who suspected her of drunken driving. She headed north into Andover and officers spotted her on Red Spring Road, Edson said.

She fled from them. A short time later, Officer Blouin spotted her on Andover Street heading toward him with her headlights off. He spun around and chased her SUV.

Frazer then pulled into Wingate at 80 Andover St. and smacked into three parked cars.

Blouin attempted to block her in with his cruiser, but as he got out of his car, she allegedly drove at him and hit his door, causing minimal damage, according to police. Blouin was not injured.

The woman circled the building, Edson said, and almost hit a couple of employees on a cigarette break. Meanwhile, a state police cruiser had responded to block the parking lot's entrance, Edson said.

Blouin again tried to block Frazer in with his car.

"She looked him right in the eye and drove right at him," Edson said. That's when Blouin shot at Frazer's car. But the shots did not stop her and she got past the state police cruiser by driving over a curb and a snow bank and

Alleged 'Vale gunman in custody

By Ben Hellman

Ralph Kinnear, the alleged gunman of the Sunday's General Store robbery in Ballardvale two weeks ago, was arrested last week, but is not cooperating with investigators in tracking down the other suspects, said Andover Det. Sgt. Don Pattullo.

The 33-year-old from Wilmington was arrested in Lowell last week by Andover detectives Pat Keefe and Edward Higgenbottom working in conjunction with Lowell police.

Keefe and Higgenbottom joined Lowell officers staking out a house Kinnear was believed to be staying at and arrested him at gunpoint when he arrived as a passenger in a Jeep, said police.

Kinnear was identified in a photo array by the female victim of the Sunday's robbery, said police. Kinnear was allegedly not wearing a hood or mask during the robbery and the victim was able to get a clear view of his face. She also helped an artist construct a police composite.

Kinnear remains in custody in Lowell, where he is facing outstanding warrants. "He's been around. He has a lengthy record," said Pattullo.

The Sunday's robbery occurred around 8:30 p.m., just after closing time at the store, on Tuesday, Dec. 17. Sunday's is located across from the Ballardvale train station. The victim reported that two men between the ages of 16 and 18 entered the store and one male, allegedly Kinnear, held a small black gun and demanded money, accord-

Many of town's cancer rates lower than expected

Everett Penney, town health director, studies reports that show Andover rates for many types of cancer are below the rate expected by the state, according to reports from 1995 to 1999, the most recent available.

■ CANCER STUDIES

walk-in health clinics, Penney said. The data is more than two years old, but Penney said it takes that long for the state to compile the information.

Penney uses the annual report to zoom in on problem areas where Andover's cancer numbers are higher than the state numbers. That happened 12 years ago when Andover's breast cancer rate was 30 percent higher than the state average. Andover reported 166 cases of breast cancer between 1990 and 1995. The state average at that time for Andover's population would have been 128 cases.

"We got involved with pamphlets and public-service announcements encouraging women to get mammograms and reminding them of the importance of self-breast exams," Penney said.

He said he is in no way taking credit for the decrease in breast cancer cases in Andover, but believes increasing public awareness about cancer has probably helped the numbers go down.

The latest report shows

Andover's breast-cancer rates went down with 124 cases reported from 1995 to 1999, compared to an expected 132.5 during those four years.

"It's only speculation why the numbers went down, as there is no cure for breast cancer. It's more about family history and other factors. But, we are glad the numbers are going down," Penney said.

Pancreas-cancer cases are also down in Andover. There were 18 cases reported during 1990 to 1995 compared to 15 cases between 1995 and 1999.

Lung-cancer cases in Andover were the most noticeably lowest when compared to the state average. Andover had 82 cases reported between 1995 and 1999, compared to an expected 117.

Not all numbers going down

But not all cancer rates are decreasing in town. In Andover, numbers for two types of cancer — testicular and Hodgkin's disease — increased to be much higher than the state average.

The state report shows nine cases of testicular cancer reported in Andover between 1995 and 1999. The state average for a town of Andover's population is 4.3 during that time. That works out to twice as many cases when comparing Andover to the state.

Andover's number for Hodgkin's disease, also called Hodgkin lymphoma, are similar. Andover had nine cases reported, compared to the state average of 5.35 from 1995 to 1999. Andover's rate is 68 percent higher than the state, according to the study.

Melanoma (skin cancer) cases in Andover are also higher than the state average. Andover had 29 reported cases between 1995 and 1999, compared to the state average of 24.7. That means Andover rates were 17 percent higher than the state average, according to the study.

Penney said pinpointing reasons for the higher numbers is pure "speculation" as there is no known cause for cancer.

While the Andover numbers are higher in these cancers, he does not think the numbers are cause for alarm. Rather, he plans to continue with "intervention strategies and programs" that remind the community about how important early diagnosis is when it comes to cancer.

"You can't attack all these cancer numbers at once," he said. "I'm encouraged by the current report. Overall, we are not higher than we should be."

Penney's upcoming "intervention strategies" include using a state grant about melanoma awareness that his department applied for two weeks ago. He is looking to connect with local pharmacies to provide free sunscreen products at a guest speaker's lecture warning about how the sun damages skin. He hopes to host at least one lecture for kids who take part in Andover's summer-recreation program.

He also plans to continue a film series at Andover High School about breast and testicular cancer, produced by the American Cancer Society. Penney worked with the school's health department and it shows two films to juniors and seniors. Girls see the breast-cancer film while boys see the film on testicular cancer.

"Catching cancer early makes a difference. That's the message we are getting out to the kids and we plan to continue," he said.

Who's running for office in 2003?

Some of Andover's elected officials are coming to the end of their terms this spring, but as of Monday, only two people – Town moderator Jim Doherty and Andover's school committee representative for the Greater Lawrence Technical School, Kenneth Hamilton – have returned papers declaring they will run in the March election.

School Committee member Gerry Gustus had taken out papers, but not yet returned them.

Selectmen Brian Major and Ted Teichert and School Committee member Skip Eccles will all need to run for reelection to keep their posts this spring.

Only two people showed up to a forum put on by the League of Women Voters for residents interested in seeking public office for the first time. Gustus and John Roberts of the Vision 21 Committee made it out to the Thursday, Dec. 5 forum. Selectmen chairman Ray Hender gave a presentation of what it was like to run for office.

Trees cut off downtown power

By Ben Hellman

The Christmas night snowstorm transformed Andover into a winter wonderland for some, but it also closed down some downtown businesses and left more than 400 Andover residents without electricity for 13 hours last Thursday, Dec. 26, the day after Christmas.

The power outages were a nuisance to many, but a danger for some. There were so many accidents that state police requested a patrol car sit on Interstate 93 South with its lights flashing to slow down motorists.

the Andover car breaks, but is being questioned about the Andover breaks, according to Higginbottom.

In addition to Harold Parker State Forest, the Harrison ice rink at Phillips Academy has also had several car breaks. Wednesday, Dec. 18, marked the fifth time in about a month that someone reported a car break there. They have all been "smash and grab" breaks, meaning the intruder smashes a window and quickly grabs whatever he or she can take from the car. Stolen items have included laptops, cellular phones and pocketbooks.

The rink gets lots of traffic as it serves as home base for the Andover Hockey Association.

Andover High girls and boys hockey teams play games there, too. Other towns, including Masconomet Regional of Topsfield, also use the rink.

Andover police have beefed up their patrols around Phillips Academy and Harold Parker and at Boston Sports Club, which has also reported car breaks.

"We have been more visible, and the public has also helped with this," said Higginbottom, noting that people are learning not to leave valuables in their cars.

Signs were put up at the Harrison Rink telling visitors about the breaks. Other skating rinks, including the Ristuccia Rink in Wilmington, also have signs telling visitors about the breaks.

She then headed north on Andover Street to Red Spring Road, veered left onto Moraine Street before she crashed into a tree. She was taken into custody and held overnight. Police took care of her animals.

POWERFUL STORM

Housing Authority head Christine Metzmaekers to evacuate public housing developments Memorial Drive and Frye Circle Thursday at 9 a.m. because residents hadn't had power since 7 p.m. the night before.

Between 10 a.m. and mid-afternoon there were 10 separate complaints on 10 different streets of power lines across the streets or in danger of falling because trees or heavy limbs were leaning on them (see police log, page 9).

Employees showed up to their places of business in downtown to find that heat and electricity was off and that even security systems had become inactive. Town offices and the post office at Old Town Hall were closed for the day because they didn't have power.

Mass Electric spokesman Amy Atwood said that the event was caused by a tree falling on Highland Avenue and taking down "several sections of wire."

The 900 customers who were initially effected dropped to 400 by 8 a.m. This remaining 400 people were without power until after sunset on Thursday.

Even more residents were effected by a power outage on Christmas night. Atwood said that 1,100 were without power from 6 p.m. to midnight.

A pair of signs help tell the story of last week's Christmas night storm.

President-elects' loss

■ PIERCE

Cemetery in Concord with brothers Franklin Jr. and Frank Robert, who preceded him in death.

While the town of Andover has changed considerably in the century and a half since Benjamin Pierce's death, most of the landmarks of his death and final weeks in Andover still stand. The home of Pierce's sister-in-law remains nearly unchanged at 48 Central St. (a pool has been added); six years after President Pierce left office, Jane Pierce died in this home, which had become a frequent summer destination for the president during his four years in office.

The Andover Alms House survives; it stands between Argyle and Arundel streets and serves as the best landmark for locating the site of the wreck.

The actual site of the wreck today lies between Rock O'Dundee Road and Arundel Street. It is best accessed by parking at Penguin Park on Burnham Road, crossing Burnham Road to the train tracks, and walking about 100 yards to the left (northwest). Here one can still view the steep embankment that exacerbated the force of the wreck, and with effort envision the floodplain fields that once rolled to the door of the Alms House. Impossible to grasp, perhaps, are the sentiments of Franklin Pierce, who stood upon that site 150 years ago and there first acknowledged the death of his only surviving son.

ENTERING ANDOVER

By Neil Fater and Don Mathias

ALL THOSE YEARS AGO

100 YEARS AGO

Travel was good over the new Haverhill and Andover line on Sunday.

The fire which recently destroyed a hen house belonging to JH Lord of West Andover, is being investigated by the police. It is believed to have been set by somebody with malicious intentions.

Among the New Year's resolutions by some noted men, cabinet officers, military and naval men, the following two or three are pretty good: Brig. Gen. AW Greeley, chief of the signal corps and well known in Andover, said: "I have made one resolution already; not to make any good resolutions for the New Year. A man's life should be such that he does not need to change it on the first of every year."

Capt. William Cowles, US Navy, said "My resolution for the New Year is that I shall tell the truth, if possible."

Mr. William Loeb, Jr, assistant secretary to the president, said, "I shall endeavor to keep in force the good resolutions that I have adopted ever new year. The first of these is to mind my own business."

75 YEARS AGO

The Knights of Pythias held a meeting in Fraternal Hall Tuesday night.

There has been much discussion of late relative to flooding the playstead for the purpose of providing a skating rink for the children of Andover. The attendant dangers facing children who skate on large ponds and lakes is well known and though definite statistics are not available, drowning accidents through the medium of skating must be nearly on par with those from swimming, proportionate to the number who take part in these sports.

The war memorial problem we have always with us, Andover has considered and reconsidered the question year after year, and after all has been said, we know neither what we want or what we don't want. The trouble in Andover is that there are two conflicting theories concerning a memorial. Some want it to be useful while the rest insist that it should be only ornamental.

Education

Frank "Skip" Eccles had not taken out papers to run for reelection as of Monday.

Fellow incumbent Gerry Gustus says he will seek reelection during a tough budgetary year.

2003 election

Who will run for School Committee?

By Ben Hellman

Gerry Gustus will make a run to keep his School Committee seat in March. The first-term School Committee member is one of two members whose term will be up this spring. Skip Eccles is the other member, but has been unavailable for comment. Eccles first joined the committee in 1997.

Gustus says he sees his primary role on the committee as "the voice of the community" and he says the community is saying to stop increasing class sizes and bring them back to levels that existed before last June's failure of the tax override.

The job could be tough with the schools facing a $2.9 million budget deficit in the coming year, but Gustus says he will face the problems with a positive outlook.

Gustus also wants to reinstate the late bus, buses that left later in the afternoon and offered transportation to children held after school for tutoring or extracurricular activities. Gustus also wants to see Andover High School increase its number of assistant principals.

Gustus notes that increased school fees and the addition of a busing fee could help offset the deficit, but says he will listen to public feedback this month at the two budget forums for middle and elementary schools to be held on Jan. 14 and 22.

Gustus said cutting back on technology spending and delaying new text books could be other ways to save money. "Something will have to give," said Gustus.

Whatever happens, Gustus pledges not to support another Proposition 2½ override this year. Gustus says that the town effectively spoke against the measure last June when it voted against the tax override. "You absolutely have to respect it," he says.

Looking back on his term as a committee member, Gustus picked out the teachers contract and redistricting as processes he saw as successes. He called the loss of the override and preventing the grandfathering of redistricted middle-school students, disappointments.

"Something will have to give."

GERRY GUSTUS ON POSSIBLY CUTTING TECH SPENDING TO LOWER CLASS SIZES

Gustus says that despite their unpopularity with music parents, he still supports Superintendent Claudia Bach's cuts to the town's elementary instrumental music program.

Gustus says that to him, it was a money issue and had nothing to do with the state's time and learning quota.

Gustus, 47, has a son in the fourth grade and a daughter in the second grade at South Elementary. He came to Andover as a bachelor in 1986 before meeting his wife, but says he was paying attention to the political scene before he had kids in the schools. "Politics has always been an interest," he said.

A electronics sales representative at Pioneer Electronics for six months, Gustus was previously unemployed for 10 months following a lay off. "I've been through the economic downturn," says Gustus, but he remains positive that the economy will improve.

Gustus is also a soccer coach.

WHAT'S UP

Herman and her Health program lets kids try being single parents

By Kyra Auffermann
What's Up intern

The health department at Andover High gives its juniors a project each year to mimic the responsibility of parenthood. This is an account of spending a night with a Ready-or-Not Tot, a life-sized, anatomically correct doll that cries at random. To satiate it, students have to try inserting different keys into its back: There are keys for giving food, attention, a diaper change, a burp — and, for moments of sheer desperation, a panic key. Herman (I didn't choose the name, it was bequeathed by my friends) possesses a certain grotesque cuteness ... but there are still circles under my eyes attesting to my experience with him.

A day with Herman

2:05 p.m. — I decide to take Herman downtown to get some food and do a little Christmas shopping. He starts crying before I even get beyond the parking lot. In an impressive feat of coordination, I manage to balance my chemistry book and purse while frantically shoving each of the keys into Herman's back. I try to look as nonchalant about it as possible.

2:30 p.m. — As common sense might suggest, it's hard to browse through a crowded store when you have a fussy 8-pound hunk of plastic tucked under your arm. To add to this inconvenience, Herman decides he needs to be fed while I'm stuck in a tight corner of Andover Gift Shop, so I abandon the candles I was looking at to go outside to take care of him. A concerned mother advises me that I should cover his head, a little girl tells me she has a baby just like mine, and a passing businessman shakes his head as he walks by.

4:30 p.m. — Curled up on my couch at home, I fall asleep trying to read the aforementioned chem book ...

6 p.m. — ... and wake up to the sound of Herman wailing on the nearby coffee table ...

6:05 p.m. — ... and he's still crying ...

6:07 p.m. — oops, I dropped him ... that red "abuse" light can't be good.

6:10 p.m. — Herman does a cute little coo and is finally quiet ... lucky for him, because if he kept it up for a few more seconds, there's a definite chance he would've been drop-kicked out the window.

Townsmen intern Kyra Auffermann and "Herman," a doll that cries and demands attention, giving students who care for it a small taste of parenthood.

7:15 p.m. — Go to the mall with my dad. He suggests carrying Herman in a shopping bag ... although I have a feeling that might defeat the purpose of the project.

7:45 p.m. — I feel like the epitome of a dork. I'm walking through the Rockingham Mall, and I'm either getting dirty looks from people who assume I'm a teenage mother at first glance, or very quizzical expressions when they realize I'm carrying a doll.

Students learn that formerly enjoyable tasks like shopping can become quite difficult if their "baby" decides to get finicky at the wrong time.

8:10 p.m. — I'm in the The Gap, which is crowded sardine-style, when Herman lets loose. How charming. I decide that I don't want a store full of already tense shoppers to attack, so I just use the panic key for instant silence. I sure hope real kids come with those.

8:15 p.m. — I'm standing in the longest line ever at The Gap. A middle-aged woman comments about the "baby," and the conversation evolves until it includes half the people there. Apparently this project is very common among high schools — one woman remembered her daughter losing the doll, only to have a nearby drugstore call to say they found the baby, and it was scaring the customers.

8:20 p.m. — It's officially impossible to look remotely cool while trying to balance an ugly, heavy, plastic doll on a counter while searching through your purse for change.

8:25 p.m. — "Hey, why are you carrying that baby?"

"It's for a health project."

"OK, so you're not just weird?"

I decide that I've had enough deeply disturbed looks, so I scrawl "I'm a health project" on a napkin and tape it to the back of Herman's head.

8:35 p.m. — Waiting for my dad, I started talking to a few people outside a music store about Herman — when he starts to cry (which, in turn, inspires another baby – a real one, inside the store – to start wailing). But I have to admit, Herman's recorded little "coo" after he's quiet really is adorable.

8:45 p.m. – On my way home, the car stops short, and Herman takes a nosedive off the backseat. If I ever had any doubts, I'm positive this motherhood thing is a bad idea.

10:30 p.m. – I'm on the phone when Herman drowns out any conversation. (I guess needing to be fed is a legitimate enough reason.) "Hold on for a sec, the baby's crying" are words I didn't think I'd have to say for a long time.

12:45 a.m. – I'm way too tired for this thing to be squealing in my ear. It takes me a few minutes to figure out why I'm not asleep and why that obnoxious crying won't stop. Luckily, the crying stops with the third key I use.

1:20 a.m. – I swear I'm on the verge of stuffing this twit in my closet. His crying sounds that much louder and obnoxious this much later at night ... it's taking me forever to find the right key, especially with the whole being-half-asleep component.

4:20 a.m. – Will this thing ever shut up?!

5:15 a.m. – This is like a bad joke ... I don't even try with the other keys. I just stick in "panic", throw the doll back on the floor, roll over and go back to sleep.

5:45 a.m. – My alarm goes off. I hit it off my nightstand, and it lands upside down, on the snooze button. Ten more minutes of sleep.

5:59 a.m. – I manage to drag myself from my warm bed into the cold bathroom without opening my eyes. Very, very sleepy ...

6:45 a.m. – I get on my abysmally early bus. The driver seems surprised by the baby. I suppose a 16-year-old girl carrying a doll is a little unexpected.

7 a.m. – In the hallway before school, half the kids want to hold Herman. The other half want to see if they can make him cry.

7:40 a.m. – Time to give Herman back to the health department before going to class.

While Herman kind of grew on me, I can't say I missed him after getting to sleep through the night. I also can't say this project taught me anything I didn't know, but it was definitely an experience.

Your Dental Health
by Richard D. Hopgood, D.M.D., F.A.G.D.

THEY DID THE GNASH

If you wake up with a headache or painful jaw, schedule an appointment with the dentist to check for signs of excessive tooth grinding. As many as 23 million Americans grind their teeth at night, a condition known as sleep bruxism. Aside from sore jaws, it can lead to eroded and shifting teeth and damaged gums. This damage requires attention. Nearly one-quarter of the tooth gnashers examined as part of a recent study needed dental work as a result of their nightly grind. Once the damage is corrected, the dentist will likely recommend that patients be fitted with mouth guards intended for wearing at night. It may also help to limit coffee intake and learn relaxation techniques.

For many, bruxism isn't just a nightmare habit. Some people continue grinding their teeth during the day, causing even more wear and tear on their teeth and jaws. If you're a teeth gnasher, your dentist will see the evidence of it during a checkup. This is a good time to find out about night guards and other remedies to save yourself from this problem. New patients are always welcome here at 296 Lowell Street (Rt 133), where we have easy access off Rt. 93 Call us at 978-475-2431 for an appointment.

P.S. Loose teeth may be another sign of bruxism.

The year ahead

Much to be done in the everyday jobs

WITH ALL THE DIRE PREDICTIONS about this year's state and town budgets, it seems as if Andover won't make a lot of progress in the year ahead. But that is not the case.

Yes, programs will be cut, some with painful effects to some residents. Fewer new projects will begin, as selectmen are requiring both a Town Meeting and a ballot-box vote on any large capital project. This means there will be fewer flashy new programs or construction projects approved by the town than in the heady days of the late 1990s.

But the town will continue the largest sewer expansion in its more than 355 years, taking hundreds of homes off septic systems. A new fire station will be added to the new police station on Main Street. A private group will continue raising money for, and expects to begin building, a youth center that it will give to the town. Meanwhile, work continues toward creating a larger senior center.

This time of year, individuals often make outlandish New Year's resolutions. They swear they'll accomplish impressive projects, or make great changes in their lives. But real change is rarely created in an instant, thanks to one big decision. It takes months of hard work, for instance, to learn a new language, lose weight or quit smoking.

It's the same for the town. It takes months, or years, for workers to complete Andover's most significant jobs, the projects that will improve the lives of Andover residents for decades to come. Make no mistake: This year, Andover will continue important work, building the needed projects to which residents have already committed.

Web question

Good news: Andover cancer rates are going down. Why is this?

Last week's Townsmen Web-site question was:

How will you spend New Year's Eve?
Of the 25 people who responded:

- 4, or 16 percent, said "Going to a party."
- 10, or 40 percent, said "Staying in with family."
- 1, or 4 percent, said "Renting a movie."
- 2, or 8 percent, said "First Night in Boston."
- 3, or 12 percent, said "On vacation elsewhere."
- 5, or 20 percent, said "Other."

This week's Web question is:

To what do you attribute Andover's lowering cancer rates?

- Greater public awareness to risk factors, such as smoking.
- The town-wide smoking ban.
- The clean up of polluted industrial areas like Reichhold.
- Normal fluctuations in such statistics with time.
- Other.

LETTERS POLICY

THE Townsmen accepts letters to the editor from the community. Letters must be typed and no longer than two, double-spaced pages. All letter writers must include addresses and phone numbers with their letters. The phone numbers will not be published.

The paper reserves the right to edit letters at its discretion. Reasons for editing include editing for length, clarity and style.

Letters should be received by the Townsmen by Monday at 5 p.m. for consideration in that week's paper. They may be sent by mail, fax or e-mail. As a general rule, the paper does not publish anonymous letters or thank-you letters.

It also does not publish letters for candidates in the issue prior to an election.

'Insensitive' police log entries must be avoided

Editor, Townsmen:

I noticed in the police log that the Townsmen published a Dec. 26 incident of a "black" female hitchhiking in Elm Square. I did not notice any other report leading with: a "white" resident, or an "Asian" resident.

Were others as deeply embarrassed as I was? Does the editorial staff of the paper blindly print whatever insensitivity the police blotter serves up?

Environmentally friendly ways to better lawns

Editor, Townsmen:

Following the League of Women Voters forum "Healthy Lawns and Landscapes" on pesticide reduction and water conservation last January, we received numerous homeowner requests for referrals to organically-trained landscapers and lawn-care professionals. We encouraged homeowners to request organic and non-toxic lawn-care and landscaping services from their current providers, as well as to seek alternative firms that may already be using these approaches.

Now there is an opportunity for local lawn-care professionals to avail themselves of the training and education they may need to offer organic and non-toxic lawn care to their customers, and to meet the local demand for these services.

Registration is now open for the second-annual organic land-care training course, offered by Northeast Organic Farming Association/Mass. This five-day course runs from Jan. 21 to 23 and 28 and 29 (snow day Jan. 30) and will be held at Tower Hill Botanical Garden in Boylston, just west of Interstate 495 near Worcester. Completing the course leads to accreditation in NOFA standards organic land care.

This is the only training in organic land care in our area geared to the professional landscaper. Last year's course was over-subscribed, which has led NOFA to open this year's training to 90 participants.

We encourage all local landscapers to register early and avail themselves of this training. Becoming NOFA-certified in organic land care will put a landscaping business at the cutting edge of the changing lawn and land-care industry. Our community will benefit greatly when more professionals are available to provide the services in organic land care that local residents are looking for in ever-increasing numbers.

For more information and to register, contact: Marilyn Castriotta, NOFA/Mass organic land-care program coordinator on 617-576-0810; or castriotta@aol.com, or www.massorganic.org.

School leader says recap of budget year leaves inaccurate impression

Editor, Townsmen:

I'd like to respond to the Townsmen issue of Dec. 26. The coverage "Year In Review 2002" included comments about the failed override vote last June that sought additional support for the school budget.

A portion reads: "School administrators immediately began planning which school employees would be laid off and which budget items would be cut. No school employees were laid off, despite the administration's dire predictions. Personnel were reassigned to different positions, sometimes at other schools."

I'd like to keep the record straight about what really did happen.

The administration had a well publicized list of positions that would be cut and expenses that would be cut. This list was discussed and shared at many meetings, printed in a newsletter that was mailed to every household, and reviewed in the Townsmen.

When the override failed, the administration acted on every item on that list. Positions were cut and expenses were cut. Because we opened two new schools that needed additional staff, no existing staff member lost a job. They were reassigned. But the positions were lost. Class sizes have indeed increased due to the loss of six teaching positions, for just one example. If we had not had two new schools opening, existing staff members would have lost their jobs.

Has the Townsmen accurately reported the facts? Sort of. No school employees were laid off. Has the paper left the impression that the schools have managed just fine without the override? Sounds that way to me. I think the Townsmen should be more accurate in its reporting. The paper does a disservice to their readers when they are not careful with the words they use and the impressions they give.

Hopefully Townsmen readers made their way to page 14 of the Dec. 26 paper for the article on school improvement councils, where they would learn more about the cuts made to our middle schools. They'll also see the chart that shows 35 positions cut in all three school levels. Perhaps the reader is wondering how our schools are managing without these positions.

On page 8 is the editorial "Communication the key for 2003." We are advised that what we need is to communicate, to take to heart the hard lessons learned this year from the failed override. In the meantime - communicate, please.

I agree, the school administration and the School Committee must continue to communicate, using as many vehicles as possible. I want the people in Andover to know what is going on in our schools, and what they will look like if more positions are cut and more textbooks are not purchased. There will be meetings regarding the school budget on Jan. 14 at 7 pm. at West Middle School and Jan. 22 at 7 pm. at West Elementary School.

I hope the Townsmen will help by doing their part to communicate accurately. This can be our wish for 2003 - please!

ing to police. Here's what police say happened: The victim handed over approximately $100 in cash. The men then fled the store and ran to an older model brown or black pickup truck on Tewksbury Street, where another male was waiting. The truck's tailgate was open and pieces of wood hung out the back. The truck drove north towards Tewksbury Street.

Snap decision:

Why police push seat-belt use

According to police:

- Safety belts reduce the risk of death or serious injury in a motor vehicle crash by half. Yet a statewide survey conducted by the Governor's Highway Safety Bureau found only 56 percent of front-seat occupants wear safety belts in Massachusetts - compared to 75 percent belt use nationwide. The lowest usage rate was among teens 16 to 19 years old, at 50 percent.

- Massachusetts law requires all drivers and passengers to be properly restrained in a safety belt, booster seat or child-safety seat. A driver may be stopped if a child 12 years of age or younger is improperly restrained ($25 fine per child).

- Children 12 years of age and under, especially those riding in a rear-facing child safety seat, should always ride properly restrained in the back seat away from an air bag.

- Children under five and weighing less than 40 pounds must ride in a child-safety seat. Children five and older and weighing more than 40 pounds must wear a safety belt; though for maximum safety, children 40 to 80 pounds should ride in a booster seat. Children who weigh more than 80 pounds and are taller than 4 foot 9 inches tall are ready for an adult safety belt.

REMEMBERING THOSE LOST IN 2002

The following Andover residents were among those who died in 2002:

Joshua L. Miner III, 81, founder of the national Outward Bound program, which got its start at Phillips Academy, died of cancer on Jan. 29 at his School Street home in Andover. He spent more than 30 years at Phillips, retiring in 1985. His early years there were marked by his commitment to getting a successful European school program off the ground that mixed physical challenges with academics. The programs were called "short-term schools" in Europe and studies showed that students who attended these schools were better prepared for real-life experiences. Miner, who spent a year teaching in Scotland before arriving at Phillips, believed strongly that physical challenges should be a key part of a young person's development. He eventually was successful and launched the Outward Bound program at Phillips.

Calvin C. Deyermund, 81, who served with the Andover Police Department for 20 years, died Feb. 23. He was a lifelong town resident.

Alexandra J. Miliotis, 16, and a sophomore at Andover High School, died March 15 after a courageous battle with a rare form of leukemia. Alex suffered from ALL (acute lymphocytic leukemia), a common cancer in children and often curable. But Alex had a rare chromosomal form. In fact, her parents, Patti and Mark Miliotis, said there are only 10 cases in the country.

She had a bone-marrow transplant in February as her twin sister, Arianna, was designated as a perfect match.

Alex was a three-sport athlete and numerous teammates, friends, and classmates rallied around her, hoping the bone marrow operation would work. Unfortunately, it did not.

Theodore L. Russem, 87, and of Nutmeg Lane, died May 13. His family business, Russem's, was a popular women's clothing store rooted in Lawrence with a store in Andover. He was well known at Merrimack College where he will always be remembered as a business leader and philanthropist. He founded and funded a continuing program for students who volunteer during college breaks.

Merrimack College also lost a great friend when Andoverite Simeon E. LeGendre Jr., 84, died May 9. He was a 40-year teacher there and also worked as placement director for 25 years. He was among four people honored at the college's First Founder Observance in 1998 and was also honored by the Greater Lawrence Bar Association that year for his 50 years of legal service.

Charles S. Barron, 70, longtime owner of Barron's Country Store in West Andover, died July 8.

Sybil Z. Wise, 67, a former teacher at Pike School, died Sept. 14. She also taught at Phillips Academy and was well known to local students.

Tonight Show host Jay Leno, died Oct. 6 after a long battle with cancer. He was a graduate of Pennsylvania Military School and Yale Law School. He was 62.

Jeanne (Parenteau) St. Pierre, 48, of Andover, died Feb. 5 as a result of injuries from a car accident. She was a resident of West Andover for the past 10 years and was communicant of St. Robert Bellarmine Church of Andover, where she served as curriculum coordinator for the Religious Education Board. Mrs. St. Pierre was a member of the American and Massachusetts Psychological Association. She was an active volunteer and board member for many Andover organizations including the Memorial Hall Library, the Andover Fund for Education, the West Elementary School PTO and was an initiator of Andover's first spelling bee.

Local realtor John J. Hewitt, Jr., 57, died Nov. 3. He was a longtime realtor in Andover and worked with Prudential Howe and Doherty Realty. He enjoyed fishing, kayaking and spending time at his cottage in Rye Beach, N.H.

It's been 4 1/2 years since we opened our doors here at the Andover Training Station and we feel we're doing things right! There are gym franchises everywhere, but we are family owned and operated. Our members are very loyal to us and we are in total appreciation of them!

In our 4 1/2 years, we have seen so many people change their life, lose weight, lower high blood pressure and cholesterol.

Many members made such great

Just some of our staff changes in how they feel and how they have improved their health. When they check in, their pictures on our monitor show them the day they joined and how we see them now. Some came in with doctor's orders to start exercising. Our complimentary training session and program got them going and our great staff, trainers, and instructors are always there to help, too.

We have such a nice bunch of people around here, and when you come to the Andover Training Station, it definitely shows. And, it's not just a gym, it's a place that becomes a stop for many to sit and enjoy complimentary coffee with their friends. Also available, delicious protein bars, and the best bagels in town delivered fresh from Perfecto's. So come in and visit us or check us out on the Web: www.andover-trainingstation.com

Siller to Taiwan for honor

Curtis A. Siller Jr. of Wintergreen Circle, Andover has been selected to receive the IEEE Communications Society award for exemplary service to its publications initiatives. Siller will be recognized later this month in Taipei, Taiwan, in conjunction with the 2002 IEEE Global Communications Conference. The 70,000-member society is the world's largest professional group committed to advancing the science of communications, and is headquartered in New York City. More than half its membership is drawn from outside the United States. Its five sole-sponsored journals and magazines are independently ranked by the Institute of Scientific Information Journal Study as the world's top five publications in the area of telecommunications, assessed on the basis of scientific and engineering impact. Dr. Siller has served on the editorial board of four scientific publications, including as editor-in-chief of IEEE Communications Magazine and currently as steering committee chairman of the IEEE transactions on multimedia.

Curtis A. Siller Jr.

Siller is Chief Technology Officer with Cetacean Networks Inc., www.cetacean.com, located in Portsmouth, NH. He is responsible for providing the company's scientific vision, as well as overseeing its day-to-day technology activities.

Prior to joining the company soon after its founding, Siller was with Bell Laboratories for more than 30 years. His activities at Bell Labs lead to more than 50 refereed publications, a book on optical networks, eight patents, contributions to other reference texts, and numerous corporate and professional awards. A highlight of his career was working with Arno Penzias and Robert Wilson, 1974 Nobel Prize recipients, in the area of experimental apparatus for cosmological investigations, according to a release. He is both an IEEE and Bell Laboratories Fellow.

Gracy is new team leader

Mark Gracy, agent/partner, is a new team leader at Keller Williams Realty in downtown Andover, at 63 Park St. He is a member of the Agent Leadership Council at the Andover office. He has recently attended the Mega Agent Boot Camp in Austin, Texas.

Prior to his joining Keller Williams, he was a residential sales consultant for Re/Max where he earned membership in the 100% Club, one of the highest honors for annual sales production.

He owned and managed a Re/Max office in Ipswich, where he managed a team of buyer assistants and administrative staff. As team leader, he was responsible for excess of $15 million in annual real-estate sales.

Keller Williams grows, learns

Three others are also working with Keller Williams.

John Ostophule, who recently moved to Andover, says he hopes to build new relationships with clients. He is currently employed as an ophthalmic medical tech where he assists with eye surgery and performs eye exams. He says he's eager to start his real-estate career.

Mike Cuscia was born in Lawrence and has lived in Methuen for the past 33 years. He joined his father in the family plumbing business in 1963 and has been involved in commercial, industrial and institutional contracting in Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Maine. He lives with his wife of 36 years, Sharon, and their two children, Mike Jr. and LeeAnn. He enjoys golf, and spending time with his family.

Rosemary Holmes-Draper has completed the specialized real estate business course entitled "Business Development for the Residential Specialist" conducted by the Council of Residential Specialists of the National Association of Realtors.

The course was conducted in Rockland, Maine and is one of the required classes that must be taken by real-estate agents and brokers who will eventually qualify for the coveted Certified Residential Specialist (CRS) designation. The two-day course covered the preparation for business plans, marketing programs and operations budgets.

Laughs running out at Grill 93

Italian-American restaurant, The Chateau, to replace Grill 93's food, comedy

By Ben Hellman

Grill 93 could be trading in its comic stage for oil paintings and Italian-American cuisine. A Grill 93 manager who declined to give his name said this week that when the final sale goes through in February, Grill 93 will become The Chateau Restaurant of Andover, which despite the French name, is a restaurant that serves primarily Italian and American food.

The restaurant, bar and comedy show place located on River Road and visible from Interstate 93, tipped its hand this month when it asked selectmen to transfer its liquor license to The Chateau Restaurant of Andover and announced John Nocera as manager. Nocera owns Chateau Restaurants in Waltham and Norwood as well as Nocera's in Stoughton.

Grill 93 owner Robert Soho was not available for comment on the impending sale.

But past manager Ronald Sava was a vocal opponent of Andover's smoking ban, saying that it would have financial effects on the restaurant, which he called an entertainment complex.

"Every comedy club in the country has smoking," said Sava in January 2001.

Over the years, residents driving I-93 have become accustomed to seeing signs in front of Grill 93 announcing twin lobster specials. People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals (PETA) criticized the restaurant for its lobster quest game, which allowed patrons to operate a mechanical claw to pluck lobsters from a tank. PETA called the game cruel.

Last summer stand-up comedian Paul D'Angelo filmed his situation comedy pilot A Fine Mess in the restaurant. A special showing of the pilot later aired for an invited audience, and a laugh track was taped.

The Nocera family has owned and operated The Chateau Restaurant of Waltham since 1933.

Dinner specials run between $10 and $15. Pasta, chicken, steak and seafood are on the menu, as well as a range of sandwiches from $5 to $10. Dress is casual. The restaurant also rents function rooms for events.

The Grill 93 building on River Road, visible from Interstate 93 and known for its comedy and lobster specials, is expected to become The Chateau Restaurant of Andover, an Italian-American restaurant.

WINTER WONDERS

The Merrimack Valley branches of Banknorth Massachusetts, including those in Andover, concluded a two-week Toys for Tots collection on Saturday, Dec. 21. Local child Nikelle Petrillo, with Banknorth Senior Vice President Jo-Anne Giuffrida, presented the US Marines Sgt. Brad Sidiau (at left) and LCPL Joseph Fitzsimons with all the toys collected for this drive. Bank customers and employees responded with donations of hundreds of toys to needy children during the holiday season.

Employees at Andover's Putnam Investments made Christmas special for 90 local children last week. Armed with a child's first name, clothing size and special interests, workers such as Thomas Firth (far left, above), and Jessica Wachsmann (with husband Adam at right), filled a room with wrapped gifts. The gifts were delivered to children at the Lawrence YMCA, according to Frank Kenneally (second from left above), YMCA branch executive director.

With Tournament MVP Jenny Muller pouring through 54 points in two games, and All-Tournament Team selection Ashley McLaughlin adding 30, the undefeated Andover High girls basketball squad pounded Methuen and North Andover on the way to its fourth straight Greater Lawrence Christmas Tournament championship.

The Lady Warriors crushed tournament host Methuen 74-49 in the semifinals, and 24 hours later blasted previously-undefeated North Andover 55-34 in the title game.

The locals then improved to 6-0 overall by routing non-league Boston Latin 53-30 earlier this week at the Dunn Gym.

The undefeated Andover High girls and boys indoor track teams continued to steamroll the early-season opposition, both squads demolishing Billerica by identical scores (see story below).

Elsewhere in AHS school vacation week sports action, boys ice hockey reached the Haverhill Christmas Tournament championship game, girls ice hockey continued its winning ways and the boys basketball team finished third in the 28th annual Greater Lawrence Christmas Tournament at the North Andover High Field House.

GIRLS BASKETBALL

The Lady Warriors continue to impress with their solid play night in and night out.

"I extremely pleased with this team," said AHS coach Jim Tildsley. "I really like the attitude and I can't fault the effort. The girls have come out ready to play in every game."

"We have great leadership from Jenny (Muller) and Ashley (McLaughlin). We're happy to be 6-0 — naturally — but we still don't know how good we are because the players are still figuring each other out."

Ashley McLaughlin and the Andover High girls basketball team, shown above in earlier action against Central Catholic, turned the Greater Lawrence Christmas Tournament into a mismatch.

Muller's Christmas Tournament MVP nod was her second, while last year's MVP McLaughlin made the All-Tourney Team for the second time.

A third individual honor, the Coaches Award, went to senior forward Samantha Hughes.

Andover's first real test should come next Friday night at the Dunn Gym when Andover plays host to Lowell, which is currently 6-1 and has been winning the majority of its games by big scores.

Semifinal: Andover 74 Methuen 49

Jenny Muller pumped in a season- and all-time tournament high 30 points, and the Lady Warriors exploded for 44 in the second half on the way to the lopsided semifinal round triumph.

The locals scored consistently from both inside and outside, using their tenacious defense to create a number of points off transition.

Ashley McLaughlin also had a big night offensively with 18 points, while Jackie Powers and Meagan Merinder tossed in eight each.

Rounding out the assault were Matia Kostakis and Liz Pallotta with four points apiece and Samantha Hughes two.

Muller shot a blistering 14-for-17 from the floor and McLaughlin was 9-for-12.

"Methuen came out in a triangle-and-two defense which we combated by running the ball well," said Tildsley.

The locals bolted to a 13-2 lead before Methuen could catch its collective breath and call a timeout.

The break didn't help, however, as the lead swelled to 28-6 at one point and stood at 33-15 by halftime.

"This may have been the best game Jenny ever played for us," said Tildsley. "Merry Fish and Meagan Merinder also did a terrific job off the bench, while Samantha Hughes keeps improving with every game."

McLaughlin completed her performance with 10 rebounds, nine assists, four steals and three blocks.

shots. Muller added seven assists and five steals, while Hughes had six boards, four assists and three steals. Merinder contributed nine rebounds and five steals, Kostakis eight caroms, Pallotta four rebounds, four assists and Fish three assists.

Jen Waldie paced Methuen with 19 points.

The previously-undefeated Scarlet Knights (now 5-1) were no match for the champs, as AHS crafted a commanding 28-13 halftime lead and was never seriously challenged in the final 16 minutes.

"We fell behind 8-4 at the start but continued to plug away and play with tremendous intensity," said Tildsley. "We were taking good shots at the beginning and just not hitting them."

Things came together quickly, however, with a 24-5 run over the final 10 minutes of the half putting the locals in charge.

Muller was once again spectacular with 24 points and five assists, while McLaughlin hit double figures again with 12 points to go with seven rebounds and four assists.

Samantha Hughes produced six points, seven boards and four steals.

Other key contributors included Matia Kostakis (four points, 11 rebounds, seven steals), Liz Pallotta (four points), Jackie Powers (three points, four assists, two steals), Meagan Merinder (two points) and Merry Fish (three assists).

"Jackie Powers has become a terrific sixth man, coming off the bench and sparking the breakaway," said Tildsley. "This was the best all-around game Kostakis and Hughes have played."

Andover 53

Boston Latin 30

This one came much easier than expected, as Andover led 27-8 at the half and then coasted.

"Latin also came out in a triangle-and-two defense on Jenny and Ashley, but again we ran the floor well and made good decisions with the ball," said Tildsley.

"Our set offense still needs work but the defense is awesome. Holding them to eight points in the first half was outstanding."

McLaughlin paced the attack with 17 points, 10 rebounds and three assists, while Muller was close behind with 15 points and seven assists. Jackie Powers added eight points, two assists and Colleen Haugh had four points. Also turning in solid efforts were Matia Kostakis (two points, eight rebounds, four steals) and Merry Fish (two points, three assists, two steals). Rounding out the offense were Liz Pallotta and Kerri O'Dea with three and two points respectively.

BOYS ICE HOCKEY

The Andover High boys varsity hockey team continued its early-season pattern of playing nothing but seat-squirmers, registering its second one-goal victory and battling to its first two ties in recent games.

The locals nudged Wilmington 5-4 in the opening round of the Haverhill Christmas Tournament, and in the title game the Golden Warriors battled to a 1-1 deadlock with Division 1 Central Catholic.

regular season games, the tourney champ was determined by fewest goals allowed in the two games.

Central was declared the winner because it yielded four while Andover surrendered five.

Andover also battled to a 2-2 tie against Haverhill in a Merrimack Valley/Dual County League Division 2 contest sandwiched between the tournament games.

Those results left coach Bill Cullen's Golden Warriors at 2-1-2 overall, including 1-0-1 in the league, and extended the club's unbeaten streak to three games.

Schedule

AHS returns to the ice tonight against MV/DCL Division 2 rival Westford Academy at the Tyngsboro Skate 3 Pavilion (8:20 p.m.).

Andover also hosts league rival Lincoln-Sudbury Saturday afternoon at the Merrimack Valley Forum (1 p.m.), and battles Central again next Wednesday night in a regular season crossover game at the Forum (6 p.m.).

Haverhill Christmas Tournament

Semifinal: Andover 5
Wilmington 4

Andover broke a 3-3 tie with a pair of third-period Joe Nasta goals two minutes apart.

Although the Golden Warriors outplayed Wilmington, and outshot the Wildcats by a wide 51-16 margin, this tourney opener at Veterans Rink in Haverhill was an uphill climb. Wilmington jumped ahead 2-0 on first-period goals by Jon Fish (0:57) and Ed Tucker (7:50).

AHS battled back to a 2-2 tie when Nasta set up junior linemate Toby Cohen for a goal at 11:34 of the first, and defenseman John Lineman connected unassisted on the power play with 59 seconds left in the opening session.

John Limauro gave the locals their first lead 1:39 into the middle period, but the Cats bounced back when Dave DeMango notched a power play goal at 11:27.

That set the stage for Nasta's clutch go-ahead and game-winning tallies in the final stanza, with the clincher coming shorthanded.

Wilmington made it interesting one last time on a goal by freshman top scorer Tony Resendes at 13:09.

The Wildcats pulled goaltender Andy Berian (46 saves) in the final minute, but could not sustain any pressure against AHS netminder Torin Traynor (12 saves).

Freshman Matt Colby and Cohen passed out two assists each while Nasta, Dennis Collins and Andrew Santos had a setup apiece.

"Even though we had 51 shots we were not sharp," said coach Cullen. "We slipped back into the doldrums and played the same way we did against Lowell in the opener (5-4 loss)."

Championship Game

Central Catholic 1
Andover 1

Central wasted no time taking a 1-0 lead as Derek Girouard scored the Raiders' only goal 32 seconds into the game.

Steve Johnson netted the equalizer from a goalmouth scramble at 9:19 of the second period, assists to Andrew Santos and Mike Corey.

Andover outshot Central 25-17 in the hard-hitting game, including 17-3 in the second period, but CCHS goaltender Ryan Gaffney weathered the storm and preserved the tie with outstanding play.

Golden Warriors' No. 1 netminder Torin Traynor played the first period and three minutes of the second before leaving when he was hit on the head. The injury was not deemed serious but he was kept out of action for precautionary reasons.

Sophomore goalie Craig Espinola took over and did an excellent job in his varsity debut, stopping all eight shots he faced over the final 27 minutes.

"I'm very pleased with the poise we showed in a very tough game," said AHS head coach Bill Cullen. "Espinola was impressive and Steve Seero played very well."

"We used a lot of kids and skated 11 forwards because we're in a rugged stretch of four games in seven days."

Andover 2 Haverhill 2

Haverhill broke a scoreless tie 3:25 into the second period, but 77 seconds later (4:42) Sergi Yerozolimsky tied it for AHS with his first goal of the season.

Andrew Santos notched the assist on the equalizer which came off a faceoff.

"The goal was the result of our players outthrusting them to the puck," said Cullen. "Santos got the pass to Sergi and he deflected a shot over the goalie's shoulder."

Haverhill regained a 2-1 advantage with less than four minutes left in the middle session.

Cullen shifted Santos to the first line, with Capt. Steve Johnson and Mike Corey, and the move paid off in the final goal of the game at 5:56 of the third period. "The whole line put some tremendous pressure on their defense and goaltender with their forechecking," said Cullen.

Santos eventually connected by banging a second rebound past beleaguered Hillies' netminder Ryan Brake.

Andover had a golden opportunity to win the game in the final minute, but Corey's clean breakaway shot was stopped by Brake.

"We had a lot of quality opportunities tonight," said Cullen. "We just couldn't get the puck to fall - and their goaltender played an outstanding game."

The Golden Warriors finished with a slim 27-25 shooting edge, including 12-8 in the third period. Torin Traynor made 23 stops in the locals' net and Brake had 25 saves for Haverhill.

BOYS BASKETBALL

The Golden Warriors suffered their first loss of the season, and were removed from title consideration, when Lawrence High topped Andover High guard Chris Vetrano was named to the All-Tournament Team for the third straight year.

Schedule

With a bye in tomorrow night's round of conference games, Andover is off until next Tuesday when it travels to Billerica to face the Indians (1-5).

Trailing 40-36 at the half, the Golden Warriors applied the defensive clamps and held the upset-minded Blue Devils to just 17 points in the final 16 minutes.

Three players accounted for all but six of the AHS points, sharpshooter Chris Vetrano pumping through 26, Jack Barrett 19 and Kevin Barrett 10.

The Barrett brothers also played well defensively, helping keep Salem without a point for one stretch that covered almost half the second period.

Tyler Richards contributed four points and Bob Hughes added a basket. Vetrano passed out five assists and top rebounders were senior 6'4" forwards Drew Watts and Richards.

Salem went to the free throw line twice as many times as Andover, and kept the game close with a 16-8 scoring edge from the stripe.
